Transformer Movement to Egypt

A skillful handling of project cargo despite challenges

A much interesting project movement was successfully handled by a special team at Navigators. The project details were disclosed to Navigators gazette by one of the team members. Global transformers of 5 units were to be shipped out to Alexandria from Jebel Ali initially. While the team went on preparing for the move including documents release, the destination was changed to a neighborhood port in Egypt called El Dekheila. The excellent rapport Navigators enjoyed with liners and related agencies, helped them to easily alter the destination with zero changes in the documents released

“Project movements always demand experience and skillful handling. Executing the movement on-time with cent percent success is what we explore at Navigators. Our experience and successful results attract clients to us when such demands pitch in”, mentioned the team leader

The 115 cbm transformers which weighed 175000 Kgs were moved in Flat rack to the vessel and later shipped to the destination. The holidays falling in between Thursday, and Sunday posed another threat for the move. But the experienced projects and operations personnel at Navigators Shipping and Logistica managed to complete the the cargo movement successfully taking on all challenge

1700-year-old Cybele statue back to Turkey

Turkish Cargo brought the statue of the mother goddess Cybele dated back to the 3rd century A.D back to its home after it was trafficked abroad in 1970. Performing the task with the utmost care for the shipments of historical artifacts, the cargo carrier brought the statue, which is believed to be the symbol and guardian of abundance, back to where it belongs after nearly 60 years. The statue of Cybele, which was brought to Istanbul from New York on December 12 with the sponsorship of Turkish Airlines following great legal efforts of the Ministry of Culture and Tourism, will be exhibited in the Istanbul Archeology Museum for a set amount of time
